OLVI GROUP'S ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

The objective of Olvi's environmental policy is to ensure that Olvi Group's business operations and business development are carried out in compliance with sustainable development principles as regards the environment and minimising environmental risks. As part of sustainable operations, Olvi Group is aware of the significance of environmental issues in the brewing industry.

Development of environmental affairs is carried out in sound co-operation with local authorities, and our operations are in compliance with all local environmental laws and regulations. The management of environmental issues is based on certified and regularly audited environmental management systems.

The management and development of environmental issues is realised through development programmes and target setting. A good choice of indicators and continuous supervision ensure a high standard of operations and development, as well as quick response to any deviations.

Environmental issues are divided into the following focal areas:

- Protecting biodiversity both in own operations and in value chain
- Mitigating climate change by reducing greenhouse gas emissions in own operations and value chain, in addition to adapting to actual and expected impacts of climate change
- Minimising the carbon dioxide burden from the production process and logistics
- Improving energy efficiency in the production process and a gradual transition to renewable sources of energy
- Minimising water consumption and the wastewater load through continuous development of production processes. Sound co-operation and operational development with municipal water and wastewater utilities
- Improving circular economy together with the partners, including
  - Increasing use of renewable, reusable or recycled resources
  - Recycling of waste and side streams and minimising landfill waste
  - Efficient use of materials and active involvement in local organisations to develop recycling schemes for packaging
